The Thomas Nygard Gallery is pleased to present "Carl Rungius: A Collection of Etchings". The show includes 9 of the renowned wildlife painter's most important dry point etchings. These etchings have, over the years, become synonymous with both Carl Rungius' sophisticated artwork and the magnificent animals and habitats that he was committed to portraying during his lifetime, 1869-1959).

Celebrated as the nation's best big game wildlife painter, Carl Rungius' works are immortalized in museums and private collections throughout North America, including the National Museum of Wildlife Art in Jackson, WY and the Glenbow Museum in Calgary, Canada. The exhibit is accompanied by a number of short essays examining various topics pertaining to his work; subjects, basics of drypoint etching, design techniques, and general biography.

The Thomas Nygard Gallery is one of the premier Western American Art galleries in the United States. Located at 135 East Main Street in downtown Bozeman, the gallery has on offer both historical and contemporary American art, often of museum quality, by artists ranging from John Mix Stanley (1814-1872) to Clyde Aspevig (b. 1951). The gallery is always interested and willing to purchase individual works or entire collections. For more information about specific works, or for details of other works that we have on hand, but are not included here, please visit www.nygardgallery.com or email me at tom.n@nygardgallery.com
